California Ranch News

Farmers of Oak Run valley, Shasta county, are receiving the best price for hogs ever paid since war times.

Sun scald, caused by the recent intense heat, is showing up on the Grav- Fresno have recently purchased 80

Despite splendid co-operation from property owners in general, the fight against the spread of puncture vine is progressing slowly in Merced county, said E. E. Weltey, horticultural commissioner. The situation still is menacing as regards crop damage from the vines.

After some years of experimentation with various kinds of alfalfa and with seven varieties now being grown on their farms the department of agriculture at the experiment farm at Shafter, Kern county, has found the old Chilean alfalfa to be standing up the best of all.

The Newcastle section of Placer county, one of the most productive fruit centers of California, is enjoying its best season in years. Approximately fifty carloads of fruit have been leaving here daily and fruit companies estimate that the season's shipping will be in excess of 2,000 cars.

The crop of early peaches in the Beaumont section was light this year, according to A. R. Bixley, manager of the Beaumont Fruit Growers' Association. Later peaches, he says, will be a light crop also, and three of the largest growers have combined to pack and market their crops together.

Alfalfa growers of Los Angeles county took several field tours in Antelope valley during the last week in July for the study of the economic use of water in irrigation. Seepage losses from ditches, the amount of water needed on varying soil types and soil moisture movement were discussed.

Displays of citrus fruits, for which prizes of $400 will be offered, will be a new feature of the California State Fair Setpember 4th to 11th, this year, according to an announcement by Charles Paine, secretary of the state agriculture. Five carloads of citrus fruits will be sent to the fair from the San Bernardino county, Paine reported.

Considerable interest in the subject of dormant pruning of grape vines has been aroused as the result of a series of experiments just concluded by A. J. Winkler, Assistant Viticulturist of the University of California. The experiments tend to question the value of such pruning, but further work will be conducted before recommendations are made to grape growers.

There are about 1300 acres of bearing apple trees in the Beaumont district, the chief varieties being Delicious Winesap, Jonathan, Champion, Rome Beauty and King David. A few Gravenstein, Pearmain and Arkansas Black apples are grown. The apple harvest begins in August and is completed in November. Nearly all of last year's crop here was disposed of by June of this year.

There will be over 600,000 boxes of apples grown in the Yucaipa valley this year unless something happens between now and harvest time, according to conservative estimates of leading growers. They report an average over the entire valley of two boxes to the tree. The conditions have been good all season, the set of fruit was exceptionally good and weather conditions were almost ideal for the application of sprays.

To just what extent the recent hot spell injured the prune and peach crop of Tulare county is still unknown. No definite reports have been received by Horticultural Commissioner Frank R. Brann upon which a county-wide estimate of damage can be based which, in itself, leads to the conclusion that the damage could not have been very heavy as had at first been reported. Indeed, in the opinion of cannery men interested in peaches, the damage seems to have been very slight with peaches.

Fumigation is under way in citrus orchards of Tulare county and officials predict an active season. Orders placed with certified fumigation rig owners indicate that the work will be done rather extensively. There will be night inspection in the orchards where fumigation is conducted. Night inspection proved very successful last season and raised the percentage of kill quite materially. Horticultural Commissioner Frank R. Brann anticipates a short navel crop over the state this winter, with prices maintaining a good level.

the Kern county chamber of commerce. The directors were unanimous in their vote on the measure.

The Board of Supervisors of Marin county at the request of Marvelous Marin, the county development association, has provided a $13,000 fund to be used in advertising Marin county during 1927.

The annual convention of California city and county school superintendents has been called by Will C. Wood, state superintendent of public instruction, to meet at Lake Tahoe the week beginning October 4.

An architect is preparing plans for a one-story reinforced concrete school building, with tile roof, for the Lower Lake Union High School district, Lake county. It will have eight class rooms, and will cost about $45,000.

Preparations are being made to ask for bids for a new $100,000 high school building as a result of the recent successful bond election held for this purpose. It will replace the structure destroyed five years ago by fire.

Indians may register and vote in state and municipal election, providing they are not living in tribal relations, Attorney General U. S. Webb ruled. Bridgeport, California, where large numbers of Indians reside, sought the ruling.

The Oakdale Irrigation district is developing an additional 25 second feet of water for irrigation to make good the shortage in the Stanislaus river, at this time, by the use of electrical and gasoline plants now scattered over the district.

With the new bank building and the Community Hall at Newcastle nearing completion, and work in progress on the $20,000 addition to the Newcastle Grammar School, Newcastle, is experiencing the greatest building boom in several years.

John S. Taylor, Santa Rosa, pioneer of '49, who participated in California's first Admission celebration and who has never missed voting for 74 years in California, is looking forward to casting his vote again at the August primary. He is now 97.

Indicating an increase in tourist travel in California during the late spring and early summer, state gasoline taxes for the three months ending June 30th, last, total $4,522,320.90, as compared to $4,065,589.90 for the same period a year ago.

Statistics compiled by Miss M. L. Richmond, county superintendent of schools of Kings county, show that the average attendance in the elementary schools last year was 4,061 as compared with 4,017 the previous year. The number of teachers in the elementary schools is 148, including six special teachers. The annual cost per pupil in elementary schools is $76.12.

Lassen county is ready to receive more than 2,000 members of the California American Legion, who will gather at Susanville on August 16 for their 1926 convention. The task of housing the visitors has proved so great that quarters are being arranged in cars on the railroad siding to care for the overflow. A trout dinner and an old-time steer barbecue are among the features planned.

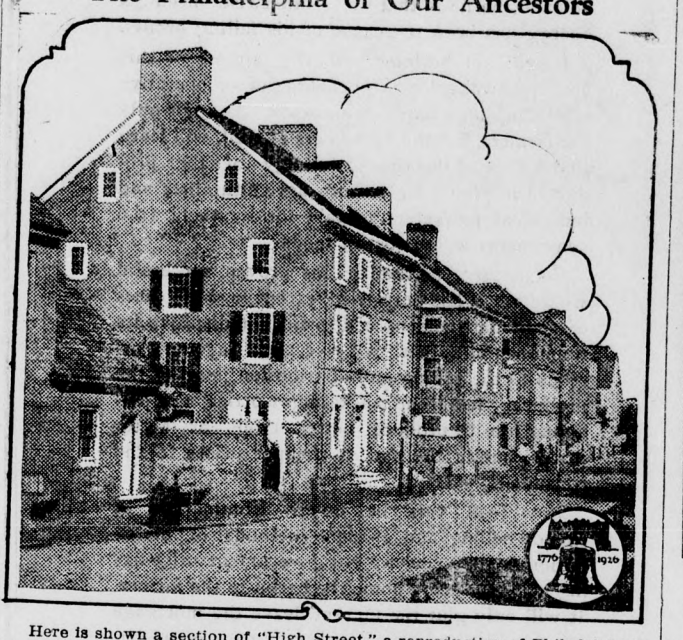
With development of the Sacramento valley and advertisement of its prosperity and opportunities to prospective settlers in other states as chief objectives, the Sacramento Region Citizens' Council, Inc., was formed recently at Willows, and will meet August 24 at Auburn, Placer county, to perfect organization and expand its scope to include the twenty-one northern counties of the state.

The supervisors of Stanislaus county have voted to submit a proposition at the November election for provision for a special tax to raise $287,500 for the erection of American Legion memorial halls throughout the county. Buildings would be erected at Oakdale, at an estimated cost of $40,000; Patterson, $35,000; Riverbank, $17,500; Newman, $45,000; Turlock, $50,000; Modesto, $100,000.

Forty-four slogans descriptive of Auburn have been received in the prize contest being conducted by the Auburn Chamber of Commerce, according to announcement by S. G. Malcolm, president, who states the final award for the best slogan will not be made until September 1st. The time-limit for receiving slogans has not expired, and those coming in during August will receive consideration, he states.

Mud Creek's overflow between McCloud and Bartle continues to block vehicular travel between the two towns and cuts off travel from Fall River valley. In the early morning the creek is low, for the coolness of the night checks the outpouring from the melting glacier high up Mt. Shasta's eastern slope. The stream of mud comes in gushes at times, probably being dammed temporarily somewhere upstream.

The Philadelphia of Our Ancestors



Here is shown a section of "High Street," a reproduction of Philadelphia's famous Market street in the days of 1776. It is one of the outstanding features of the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition now being held in Philadelphia to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Every building has been built to actual size and in actual architectural detail. The furnishings of each building are exact reproductions of those used in the Revolutionary days. Many of the pieces on display are the originals and today are worth thousands of dollars because of their historic value. The Exposition continues until December 1.

Motorists who were stopped by traffic officers at Merced recently, received unexpected treatment. The county chamber of commerce distributed a ton and a half of Elberta peaches to tourists enroute to Yosemite National park. The services of a squad of state motor policemen were enlisted. As automobiles rounded the corner of G and Twenty-first streets, Inspector James Morrison halted each with a determined look on his face. Expressions of dismay changed quickly to delight as the officers handed each driver a basket of peaches.

Charles Brown, 92, champion fiddler of Novato, is anxious to meet in competition the fiddlers of Sonoma county. That the aged fiddler may have brought to a fruition his lifelong ambition, the directors of the Marin County Fair and Harvest Festival have decided to aid him by offering a prize for the best fiddler. The contest will be held during the three days, August 20, 21 and 22, that the Marin County Fair and Harvest Festival will be in progress at Novato. All fiddlers 60 years of age and over are eligible to compete.

Marking the last resting place of Shasta county's oldest pioneer, a bronze tablet has been placed over the grave of Major Pierson B. Reading in a little cemetery located near Major Reading's original adobe house. Reading came to California in 1843 and received a large grant of land from Governor Manuel Micheltoreno for his services in assisting in putting down an insurrection. He participated in the Sonoma convention in 1846, at which the independence of California was declared. He died in 1868.

J. J. Mitchell, Tulare, city tax collector and assessor, completed the 1926 tax roll showing a total gain in the assessed valuation of taxable property within the city limits to be $273,810. The total assessed valuation of all property within the city is $4,773,915 as compared with the 1925 total of $4,500,105. The largest increase during the past year was in new buildings, representing a gain of $239,510. Personal property increased $30,210 in value, and land values showed a gain of only $4,085.

Farmers in the Riverbank district have taken the initial steps to form a water users' association, since it is apparent that the irrigation supply is acutely short this season. Bruce C. Hill, large farmer, is secretary of the organization. A number of huge pumps will be placed in the Stanislaus river to throw water into the canals and thus help this section of the county. A number of private plants will also be utilized to pump water directly into the ditches.

George A. Wanamaker, pioneer drayman and widely known citizen of Grass valley, died at the age of 85 years after a long illness. Wanamaker had been a member of the volunteer fire department for sixty years or more, being the patriarch of the

The season's citrus shipments early in July reached a total of 3995 cars of oranges and 212 of lemons, which surpasses the shipments of last year to the same date by 1842 cars. Truck shipment figures will be available at the close of the season.

With the Imperial valley cantaloupe shipment for the season about over, according to the California Co-operative Crop Reporting Service, the final estimate of the cantaloupe crop other than in the Imperial is given as 8,000 acres.

HALL FUND BEGUN

At the Grange Tuesday evening the following were obligated in the first and second degrees. Mrs. Alma Carey, Mr. F. E. Carey and Mr. R. E. Hanson.

The purchase of the lots on Third Street for a grange hall site was reported completed and the secrtary announced the receipt of the first contribution of $50.00 towards the hall fund. As this was unsolicited it received warm applause.

S. N .Hedegard made an interestin greport on the success of the cooperative movement in Denmark reading and giving statistics from a recent publication on the subject.

Mr. Anderson reported that at a meeting recently called by the county supervisors, the subject of a new court house was discussed but not favored at the present time. It was thought however that new quarters for the Horticultural rooms were needed also a Juvenile Detention Home and improved housing for the county library.

The lecturer had an interesting program of music and singing.

BURGLARS CAUGHT

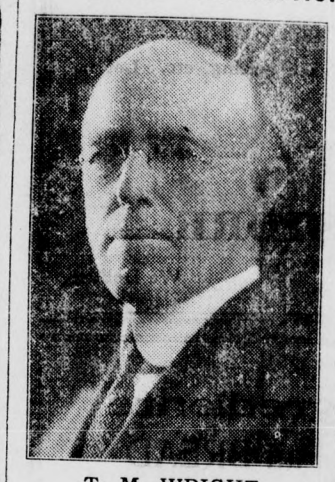
The Campbell Service Station and Rose Fruit Store were broken into Monday night. Two young men who gave their names as S. Harper and Edward Miller were later captured by Patrolman Barnes assisted by two deputies from the sheriff's office. Barnes had gathered the evidence and located the men and then notified the authorities. Glove finger tips had been used to conceal prints. Some of the tips were found at the service station and others were found in the hotel room occupied by the men. Also the hands of the clipped gloves were found hidden in the room. The boys about 19 years of age confessed to the jobs and are believed to have worked their turn elsewhere.

F. M. Haliwell made the charge against them and Judge Sontheimer of San Jose set today for their examination.

Teachers Graduate

Miss Frances Duncan and Miss Marie McCoy were graduated from the kindergarten-Primary course of the San Jose State Teachers College with the class that received diplomas Friday. Miss Jennie Loveless of Lodi, who has made her home with Miss Myrtle Arnott while attending school, was also a member of the class in another department. Members of her family were here last week to attend the commencement exercises.

T. M. WRIGHT SEEKS RE-ELECTION



T. M. WRIGHT
Assemblyman, 44th District

T. M. Wright, who has represented Santa Clara County in the State Legislature for ten years, again submits his candidacy for the office, seeking the Republican nomination. By reason of his long service he has attained a position of influence in the State, and has handled some of the most important legislation which has been enacted during recent years.

Mr. Wright has been honored with the chairmanship of the committee on Federal Relations, twice was made the chairman of the committee on Public Morals, and twice was chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, which latter committee handles all measures orginating in either house which call for the appropriation of money.

He is an experienced legislator, thoroughly trained in the duties of the office, and commands the respect and commendation of his fellow legislators and of the State, as well as of the citizens of the county he has represented. His work has been constructive and fearless, never sacrificing conviction to expediency, and he has supported those progressive and forward-looking measures which make for better things in California.

We commend him to the voters at the coming primary election.

FATHER CRAMER DIES

D. H. Cramer received word that his father of Tolebo, Ohio, D. L. Cramer who suffered a stroke of paralysis last week passed away Sunday. Mr. Cramer spent a winter in Campbell two years ago with his son and family and made many acquaintances here. He is survived by two other sons, Clarence and Grant and two daughters, Mrs. Fred Conway and Mrs. Gustaf Bagge, all living in Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cutting and son, and Mrs. C. D. Cutting returned last week from Yosemite, where they had been for several weeks. Mr. Cutting said it was an ideal place for painting and he brought home a number of pictures which can be seen at his studio on Harrison street.

COUNTY CONSOLIDATED OUR GUESTS SEPT. 7

At the Chamber of Commerce meeting Monday evening Chauncey Whitman gave a short talk on his eastern trip. He stated that it was noticeable that the small towns were not going ahead very fast but big cities were getting steadily bigger. Generally the crops were good and the country looked prosperous and though some sections suffered loss from some cause or other a good year was the forecast.

In closing he urged that the Central Coast Counties get into the limelight by making more noise about the wonderful sights to be found around us.

G. E. Farley reported on the annual picnic of the Consolidated held near Morgan Hill. At the next meeting, the Consolidated will be Campbell's guests Sept. 7.

J. F. Wehmeyer of highway committee reported the work of Hamilton Avenue paving progressing very well.

County Engineer Chandler has had his crew setting out the grade stakes for North Third street as far as the intersection with Minna street when that is extended west.

President Hedegard reported a quick turn over of the lots recently bought by the grange.

The subject of community entertainment was discussed and the Secretary was authorized to write Morning Light, Lodge I. O. O. F. thanking them for the fine band concert furnished thru their efforts and expressing the Chamber's appreciation of good music.

C. W. Shumway stated that KQW broadcasting station and set Campbell's program to be given in October. He also stated the probability of another concert by the Odd Fellows Band.

Mr. Wehmeyer told of the good work being done by Patrolman Barnes and said that the salary funds had been subscribed.

C. H. Whitman, H. C. Smith and R. E. Noddin were appointed to arrange for Consolidated luncheon.

NAVAL NOTES BY 'DOC'

Kiwanians enjoyed an interesting informal talk by Dr. Merrill on some of the amusing sidelights on "seeing the world from Goat Island by a naval officer" at the weekly luncheon Wednesday.

He stated that the daily inspection of food products received for the mess was most rigid.

The equipment in the hospital corps is of the latest and best in the world as the health of the navy is of prime importance. The bathing regulations for the jackies are strictly enforced and occasionally and "enforced hosing" i sthe most effiective. Hal Tuttle sang two tenor solos with Miss Rasmussen at the piano, which was well received.

At the Directors meeting which followed Guy Farley, the genial secretary, was selected to represent the Club at the California-Nevada district meeting at Santa Monica Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Farley and Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Cramer left today by auto to attend the session.

POPULAR NURSE

It is with great pleasure that we can announce that Mrs. Olga Weiss who had accepted a position a school nurse at Fellows has reconsidered her decision and been induced to remain as school and community nurse for the Campbell District.

Mrs. Weiss has completed additional courses at the summer session of the State Teacher's College which with her previous work and experience make her a most valuable acquisition and the trustees, Dr. Merrill, local representative of the Board of Health and the whole community are very happy over her return.

COOPERATIVE MARKETING FOR THE FARMER

Cooperative marketing of farm products is nothing more or less than the methods employed by big business. It eliminates the two great deterrents to progress—lost motion and friction. When the farmer must not only till his soil and raise his crops, but take a hap-hazard chance on selling them at a price not determined by competitive bids and the scientific basis of supply and demand, he finds that his otherwise needless energy has been the cause of his failing profits.

It will not be long until the farmers of this country awaken to the benefits of cooperative marketing on a nation-wide scale. And not only the farmers, but the consumers as well, will learn that a part of the wasted energy of the producers in trying to be both agriculturalists and individual marketers is paid for by them (the consumers) in the cost of foods.

Cooperative marketing has proven successful whereever it has been tried, except in those cases of poor management which did not disprove its fundamental values. One central agency attends to the selling and distribution, leaving the producer free from marketing worries, and enabling him to produce better crops at better prices, but in the end at cheaper prices to the consumer.

How can this be done? Elimination of chance selling and efficient methods of distribution is the answer. No government price-fixing will ever bring home the bacon to the farmer. It will only glut the market, leave the mortgage unpaid, with the world still crying for bread because of lack of business principles applied to agriculture.

The idea of cooperative marketing has not been "sold" to many people because, like many movements looking toward the pooling of resources and energies, it has suffered lack of leadership and poor management, and in some cases even undergone the smooth slickery of the swindler. But in our most prosperous communities co-operative marketing of farm produce is settling down to an established fact and as something taken for granted in the important industry of feeding the world.

ROBERT TODD LINCOLN

The young generation knows little of the late Robert Todd Lincoln, last surviving son of President Abraham Lincoln, whose passing at the age of 83 years ends a long and interesting career. The unassuming, he attained the high office of secretary of war in two presidential cabinets, and otherwise merited the presidency of the large and well known Pullman corporation.

The passing of one so closely related to Abraham Lincoln touches the heart of the people of the United States, directly for the deceased and indirectly for his distinguished father.

LONG POLITICAL CAREER

That John W. Weeks held the offices of mayor of his home town, Congressman and U. S. Senator from Massachusetts, and Secretary of War in the cabinets of two Presidents during his political career shows that more fortune attended the man than sheer luck.

Secretary Chas. W. Paine of the California State Fair, says the class of horses that are to compete at the coming State Fair, September 4th to 11th, are the best that have contested for the purses in the last ten years. Inspection of fruit on the highways has proven very satisfactory, according to California Department of Agriculture officials, especially in the southern part of the state where stations have been maintained for the past few years on the Ridge Route from San Joaquin valley to Los Angeles and other counties. During 1925 over 12,000 truck loads of grapes and other fruits were inspected on the Ridge Route and several hundred loads were ordered reconditioned before they were given a certificate permitting delivery to the Los Angeles markets.

Seeds and live roots of wild plants needed in the work of the Division of Genetics of the University of California College of Agriculture were collected by Professors E. B. Babcock and J. L. Collins in a 33-day automobile trip during which they traveled 3300 miles. The wild plants collected were of a species of Crepis, a plant of the sunflower family, closely related to lettuce. Because of its relation to lettuce the genetic study of the Crepis may yield new information of agricultural importance.

He is chairman of the sub-committee on Navigation laws and is ranking member of the sub-committee on radio.

Mr. Free has many real accomplishments to his credit.

It was through his efforts that over $2,000,000.00 was allocated to the farmers and orchardists of California to assist in the marketing of their crops.

He made the fight for a quarantine against foreign fruits, vegetables and nursery stock affected with pests such as the Mediterranean Fly, etc.

He secured an appropriation of $100,000.00 tot build fire breaks in our forests to stop forest fires.

During the recent railroad strike he induced the Interstate Commission to allocate sufficient cars to California to care for transportation of perishable products.

He made the fight for adequate tariff on almonds, walnuts, lemons, prunes, quicksilver, beans, sugar, etc., and is now leading the fight for increased tariff on tomatoes to protect the farmers from ruinous foreign competition.

He has taken a stand for development of our bays and waterways and has secured federal cooperation in the bays of San Francisco, Monterey and Ventura.

He stands for public recreational areas and put through the House of Representatives a bill for a public bathing beach at Santa Barbara and is working to secure more of these public beaches in his district.

He has secured annual appropriations for the study of the precooling and shipment of fresh fruits.

He worked successfully for an appropriation to combat the leaf hopper which is destroying our sugar beets.

He has voted for all tax reduction measures and has insisted upon economic and efficient government.

He is on very cordial relations with President Coolidge, the Cabinet, the Speaker and other leaders and has no several occasions acted as the personal spokesman of the Majority Leader.

Dr. Emily Wells, who makes her home with Mrs. Lydia Cooper and the T. A. Cutting family is spending the week at Berkeley.

Nowadays when you drink to someone's health you're taking awful chances with your own.

We sometimes wonder whether the quiet, hard-working preacher wont' have just as good chance with St. Peter as the noisy, sensational evangelist.

Miss Ruth Lewis, a teacher from New Jersey and her niece, Miss Helen Lewis, a recent graduate from the University of Pennsylvania visited the F. S. Newcomb family the past week. They came by the Grand Canyon of the Coloado, the Painted desert and petrified forest of Arizona and will visit Mt. Ranier and Yellowstone Park on their return trip. This is Miss Ruths third visit to Campbell.

Mrs. Irma Taylor of Pueblo, Colo., a former resident of Campbell is spending a few days here renewing old acquaintance. Mrs. Taylor is the house-guest of Mrs. Mary Lamphear and Miss Sadie Maxson. She left yesterday for Pueblo in response to an urgent call from her borther. Mrs. Taylor lived here with her son Glenn, when Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Duncan were here.

Petting Parties Even in Staid Old England

Miss Eleanor Sears of Boston, who has added another to her splendid list of athletic feats by walking 44 miles in 11 hours, said at a Boston dinner party:

"It isn't in immorality or dissipation, it's in strength and pluck, that the modern girl differs from her mother and her grandmother. As for all this talk about petting parties and so on—well, human nature is human nature, and petting parties are older than the hills.

"An old lady told me the other day that in her youth she attended a ball at an English country house. One of the racquet courts was arranged with chairs and palms as a sitting-out place and it was as dark, as pitch there.

"Well, the old lady—of course she was a young lady then—was sitting out in this pitch-dark racquet court with Lord William Beresford—they were talking politics or religion, I suppose—when suddenly she discovered that she'd lost her pearl necklace.

"'Oh, dear, strike a match!' she said.

"'Strike a match?' said Lord William, in a reproachful voice. 'No, no! We must play fair.'

"Then he called out:

"'Ladies and gentlemen, after counting ten I propose to strike a match.'

"And he struck his match and found the necklace after counting ten very, very slowly."

Automatic Gates for Highways Being Used

Through many miles of range country in Arizona, New Mexico and Texas the highways cross huge ranches, and gates are located in many places. Where cattle guards are not satisfactory, some other method is necessary. Gates are more or less objectionable, as the driver has to get out to open and close them, says Popular Mechanics Magazine.

In order to have an automatic gate two pipes, 4 inches in diameter and extending 16 feet above the ground, are set at the ends of the opening in line with the fence. A third pipe, usually 6 inches in diameter, also is set vertically midway between them. These three pipes are connected by a length of 2 by 8-inch timber from which chains are attached with links, crossing at the center post, then down to each side of the gate.

When the front bumper of the car strikes one side of the gate it is swung open. The chains wrap about the center pipe, causing the gate to lift. But when the car has passed the gate swings back into place. The gate is attached to the center post with U-bolts so that it will turn freely. The larger the center pipe is the harder the gate will be to open and the quicker it will close.

His Ailment

"Sam Slabby was telling me a spell ago that Hamp Flatt had his oldest boy operated on yesterday for appendicitis," stated Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge upon his return from the cross roads store.

"Stars above us!" ejaculated Mrs. Johnson. "I thought the boy had pneumonia and pleurisy?"

"Sam says he did have, but the folks couldn't spell them words, but as they had seen appendicitis in print they knowed how to spell it and sent for the doctor to come and operate on the boy for that."—Kansas City Times.

Many Types Seek Movies

A survey of the types of persons trying to gain fame in the movies was made recently, and the result showed that aspirants come from almost every walk of life. The list compiled included a college professor, actors from the variety stage, concert singers, an Iowa truck farmer, winner in a male beauty contest, a Syrian immigrant, "Follies" girls and ordinary workers among men and women.

A Moving Glance

An English scientist has constructed an apparatus for measuring the power of a glance. The device consists of a sealed glass cage in which is suspended a spool of thread, the ends of which form a short circuit. Above the spool is a dial. It is reported that the glance of an actress—name not given—recently moved the needle on the dial through a 60-degree arc.—Exchange.

According to Allen Thompson of Visalia, secretary of the Tulare County Farm Bureau, the success which has thus far attended the cow and calf auction sales, similar to the regular California Farm Bureau Marketing Association hog sales, has clearly established the value of this method of disposing of cattle and calves not wanted by the dairymen and will not be abandoned.

The Anderson-Clayton Cotton Gin Company, formerly known as the McFarland gin is making extensive improvements in its plant at McFarland. Four new gin stands have been installed which run at slow speed and turn out a better product. The old machinery will be used in Arizona later where a shorter staple cotton is grown.

Watermelons in central California are about 90 per cent of a normal. About 245 cars have moved from central California up to July 2nd. Preliminary commercial acreage figures on watermelons other than the Imperial valley are 3,700 acres. Kern and Tulare counties have about 2,000 acres and Turlock about 1,000 acres.

The G. W. Hume Company, in Gratton, expects to handle 600 tons of pears in its drying yard and cannery. The plant canned a big consignment of cherries this year.

Encroachment of the army worm has been repelled, and indications are excellent for a bumper cotton harvest in Kern county this season, according to L. W. Taylor, farm advisor. The setting is exceptionally heavy and the plants are in promising condition.

B. A. Whitman and E. T. Miller of Fresnohave recently purchased 80 acres of land on the Stanislaus river, south of Manteca, San Joaquin county, and expect to go into the potato growing business on a large scale.

New accounts, comparable to a city the size of Denver, Colorado, or Portland, Oregon, were added to our books last year. The growth this year will be greater.

Joining with the people of northern California, we welcome this progress and prosperity.

We pledge our faith in the future of the State by investing large sums for power developments now under way on the Pit, the Bear, the Mokelumne, and the Stanislaus Rivers. We will have available, plenty of power at low rates for the new homes, factories and farms that are being established.

"Nowhere is power so cheap as in California."

Since 1913 the cost of living increased 65%. Electricity DECREASED.
